

Facebook Groups

For the Love of Animals in Tulsa. Lost, Found, Adopt

Tulsa Midtown Lost Pets

Midtown Tulsa Pets - Adoption and Advocacy

Tulsa & Surrounding Area Free Pets

Tulsa Area Pets Adopt, Lost and Found

Tulsa PAWS - Pets Are Worth Saving

Jenks, South Tulsa Pets - Adoption and Advocacy

Tulsa Area Pets

Tulsa Area Pets: Lost, Found, and Looking for Homes

Free Pets Tulsa & Surrounding

Adopt & Rehome Oklahoma Animals

Friends Fur Ever (Oklahoma)

Oklahoma Pets for rehoming and adoption

Oklahoma (ALL) Animals

Adoptable Dogs in Oklahoma

Hope- Lost/Rehoming dogs and animals in Oklahoma

Pitbull in Oklahoma for rehoming, adoption, free post your pit

Animals to Rehome

There are many benefits to rehoming your pet on your own rather than surrendering to a shelter. The animal can have an easier transition from the home, rather than from a home to a noisy, stress filled environment and then to a new home. Being able to communicate with potential adopters and answer questions can also bring more of a positive outcome for the pet to successfully transfer into a new home. By rehoming your pet on your own it can also cut down on potential sickness that can come from a shelter environment.

If you are unable to find a home for your pet and need to surrender it to an animal shelter, most shelters are by appointment only and to check their website to make an appointment.